

Profile : Dr. Nilanjana Chatterjee

Nilanjana Chatterjee is an Assistant Professor of English in Durgapur Government College, West Bengal, India. She completed her Doctoral thesis titled, “House as Space in the Fiction of Contemporary Women Writers of Indian Subcontinental Diaspora” in 2016. Her areas of interests are Indian English literature, diaspora studies, gender studies, and cultural studies. She has published research papers on diaspora studies and cultural studies in some reputed journals of India and has also published a book chapter on Jhumpa Lahiri by Rawat Publications of India. She is writing a monograph titled "Re-Reading Jhumpa Lahiri: House and Indian Diasporic Women", and co-editing "Re-theorising Indian Subcontinental Diaspora: Old and New Directions" for the Cambridge Scholars Publishing.

